

Self Catering on the Languedoc Coast GRUISSAN

Gruissan is one of the few traditional fishing villages on the long sweep of sandy beaches from the Rhone delta to the Spanish border. Based around the Barberousse Tower the old village clings to a rocky outcrop just above a quiet lagoon where pink flamingos feed. Two 'other' Gruissans have sprung up over the century - Gruissan Plage, a strange collection of wooden chalets on stilts made famous by the film 'Betty Blue', and the modern 'Gruissan Port', a new development centred on a boating marina.
